What to Look Forwards to on your BSc top up Equine Science and Management Degree...

Develop your coaching and riding or horse training skills

Tutor Fiona Harrison, MSc sports coaching, BHS level 5 Performance Coach and BHS senior assessor, will be teaching advanced coaching performance techniques including new research in this area and training for BHS assessments.

Update and develop your equine science knowledge and skills

Tutor Lauren Emerson MRes in Animal Health and Welfare, will be updating student's knowledge on equine science, looking at veterinary science issues that will take you into the equine industry with the latest knowledge.

Learning about strategically marketing an equine business

Many students use their degree to learn how to set up a successful equine business. Tutor and equine business owner, Laura Johnson, BSc Equine Business and Event Management, will be showing students how to market an equine business successfully in a competitive environment.

Extras that add up...

From assisting at events like the Askham Bryan Horse Trials and Bramham International Horse Trials (buggy driving, information desk assistants, arena party for Arena Eventing this year), to trips to Africa and training for and passing BHS exams, there's extras to add in if you want even more to do than your degree!
